PRESENTED FOR
VESPER SERIES

Old Harp Singers Feature Folk Songs at Fifth in Series of Musicals

ONLY GROUP OF ITS KIND IN AMERICA

Peterson, Lewis Harp Duo to Be Featured Next
Sunday

Bringing to the campus one of the most interesting and unique programs enjoyed by vespers audiences in the past few seasons, the Old Harp Singers, purveyors of American folk lore, presented the fifth of the Sunday afternoon vesper musicals series at 4 p. m. Sunday in Memorial hall.

The performers, eight in number, directed by E. J. Gatwood, were seated around a table, and as they sang kept time by clapping their hands, an effect which was charming and which added much to the presentation of the numbers. The blending of voices and regularity of pitch and quality were outstanding.

Twelve numbers were presented by the singers, as follows: "Holy Manna," "Schenectady," "The Mary
Golden Tree," "The Trees Do Moan," "Babe of Bethlehem," "Gypsy Laddie," "All Is Well," "Amazin
Grace," "Gabriel's A'wful
Trump," "Hebrew Children," "Poor Wayfaring Stranger," and "Soldier, Won't You Marry Me." Each song was of American folk origin, and a short explanation of each number was given. The program consisted of ballads, carols, spirituals, and old drinking tunes. Outstanding numbers were the carols "Babe of Bethlehem" and "Amazin Grace," and the ballads "The Mary Golden Tree," and the familiar
"Soldier, Won't You Marry Me."

The Old Harp Singers are from Nashville, Tennessee, and boast one of the only organizations of its kind in America. Personnel of the company includes: sopranos, Justine Tigert, Glenn Carroll; altos, Arlene Richardson, Mary Dennis; tenors, Robert Dowden, James Mc-Glothin; and basses, E. J. Gat-wood and Wayne Barker. George Pullen Jackson is folklore advisor.

NYA Workers Urged
To Get Extra Hours

Christmas Vacations, Exams Necessitate Acquiring Time Now

Because the next two work months for NYA students will be cut short due to Christmas holidays and semester examinations. Dean T. J. Jones is urging all University students working under the NYA to work off as many extra hours as they can this month so that they can get all their hours in for the next two months.

The current work month will end December 12 when the next time report will be due. During the next month, December 12 to January 12, NYA students will not be able to work but two weeks because of the Christmas vacation. The following month semester examinations will limit the amount of time that students will be able to work.

A Christmas cantata, "Mystery of the Nativity" by Satis Coleman, will be presented by the University elementary and University High schools in the training school auditorium December 14 and 17. It these schools at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, December 16, and to the parents at 7:30 Tuesday night.

Sigma Delta Chi Selects Title Of Humor Publication

Ray Lathrem Suggests "The Sour Mash" As Name
of Magazine

After careful deliberation, members of Sigma Delta Chi, men's juniors' fraternity, selected "The Sour Mash" as the title of their new humor magazine, which is to be released during second semester registration.

The suggestion for the selected title was made by Raymond T. Lathrem, who will be awarded a school-life subscription to the magazine. The judges considered the title, "The Sour Mash," a particularly fitting one, the best of a large number of suggestions received by the fraternity's committee. Lathrem, winner of the award, is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, a member of Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity, Keys, and a member of the publicity staff of the student YMCA.

Detailed plans for the publishing of the magazine are rapidly taking shape and the organization feels that it will have a magazine that will be on a par with any of its type in the country. The first edition will be one of 32 pages containing stories, illustrations and jokes, the latter being original on the campus.

The contest being held to select the best short story and the best short short story will close today.
If there is anyone who has not yet turned in his or her intended contribution they may yet do so. All stories must be received by Norman Garling at the Kernel office before 5 p. m. today.

IS YOUNGEST OF
MUSICAL FAMILY
Returns from Engagement
at Famous Florida
Resort

By JIMMY ANDERSON

Once every so often there comes to the front a family whose name is destined to become outstanding in some particular field. Such a family is the Spitalnys' who as everyone knows gave three sons to the field of musical entertainment and each one has outstanding fame in his own right.

Maurice Spitalny, who is to appear at the Interfraternity formal on December 7, is the youngest of three sons. The oldest is Leopold, musical director of the National Broadcasting company of New York. Bushy Phil, the middle one, for many years at New York's outstanding hotels and cafes and now is creating a new idea with his excellent girl's orchestra.
Now Maurice is upholding his end of the great Spitalny name with his marvelous fourteen piece dance combination.

The Spitalnys are natives of Odessa, Russia, and were brought to the United States when babies.
They are instinctively musical, having started from the moment they could distinguish between a piano and a bass horn. Maurice studied abroad and after playing several concerts, he became connected with the Cleveland Symphony orchestra.

The theater then beckoned and like his brothers before him, Maurice established himself in the theater pit of Cleveland's R. K. O.
Palace, where he worked for several years. Public demand soon drew him into the dance and popular field, and with his dance band he has for the last two years played in the country's outstanding hotels and night clubs. His most recent engagement was at the swanky Coral Gables Country club (Florida), where he is scheduled to return again next season.

Maurice Spitalny, himself, is a smooth, genial, capable director, whose famous violin has placed him with Rubinoff and others at the top of the popular and symphonic orchestra world.

Each member of the Spitalny orchestra is of soloist calibre and could take his place in any symphonic as well as in a popular orchestra. The orchestra has thus won fame because of its nicely tuned and beauty of tonal blend which can be produced only by music of this type.

Newly Translated

Dr. Henri Beaumont, Department of Psychology, has recently completed a translation of a German textbook on Child Psychology which has been published this week by Farrar and Rinehart, Inc., New York, and Allan and Unwin, Lon-

The title of the book, which includes full instructions on giving developmental tests to children and the complete Viennese tests for children for the first six years of life, is: "Testing Children's Development from Birth to School Age."

It was written by Dr. Charlotte Buehler, of University of Vienna, and Dr. Hildegard Iltzert, Teachers College, Elbing, Germany.

Boy's Mother Expresses Ap-

Kindness

The condition of Herbert Tade, Tennessee center, who was injured in the Thanksgiving Day game, was announced to be unchanged yesterday afternoon.

The mother of the injured boy, in a short interview at the hospital yesterday, said, "Dr. Vance said this morning that he isn't any worse. He had a quiet night I think. My husband and I appreciate everything that you have done for us. No one will ever know how grateful we are to the people of Lexington for their kindness."

It is the sincere hope of the students and faculty here at the University of Kentucky that Herbert Tade's condition will improve rapidly.

Bands played, crowds milled in on the back and wrung hands, frater-

THANKSGIVING

Kentucky beat Tennessee Thanksgiving! But there was no riotous manifestations of joy on the part of the loyal Kentucky supporters who had been denied this victory for ten years. That afternoon a courageous lad from Tennessee had been carried from the field seriously hurt.

That night at the dance there was no evidence of exultation and hilarity which usually accompany such a victory over an ancient rival. All thoughts of the game had been shoved into the background by the concern which everyone had for the outcome of the terrific struggle which Herbie Tate was waging at the hospital less than a block away.

This display of sportsmanship on the part of the spectators is the real reason why Americans have become famous as a sports-loving people. Kentucky wanted dearly to win that game, but certainly not at such a price.

Herbie Tate will recover and it was with sighs of relief and gratitude that the men and women of Kentucky learned that the crisis had been passed successfully.

THE 1935 WILDCATS

The football season is over and it is time for the Monday morning quarterback to go into action, concerning the status of the 1935 Wildcat grid machine. In retrospect nothing but praise can be said concerning our warriors of the Blue and White. They have not always conquered but they have certainly fought.

The efforts of the team are perhaps best summed up in the words of Coach Wynne who, in commenting on the season, said, "There has never been any dissention of disloyalty among the members of the squad at any time during the season." Such spirit is remarkable in view of the misfortunes in the way of injuries, bad breaks, etc., which beset the Wildcats in mid-season.

The team was not a "world-beater" and yet it may be termed the best team which Kentucky has had in a number of years. It covets a number of outstanding victories while its losses were all to powerful foes. In defeating Tennessee, a traditionally strong enemy, the 'Cats accomplished that which their predecessors have been attempting to do for a number of years. Too much praise cannot be given for their work in the season's finale.

In paying respect to the team itself we cannot forget that driving force behind the team, that hand at the throttle, that master-strategician, Coach Wynne. In his short stay at the University, the "Chetter," as he is affectionately called by his intimates, has endeared himself to the student body and faculty through his frank, amiable manner, and sincerity of purpose. Every inch a gentleman, he has commanded the respect of the entire squad and the student body as a whole.

And so we pay respect to the 1935 edition of the Wildcats and their guiding genius. It is our hope that their fighting spirit may set an example for Wildcat teams in years to come.

WE ARE STANDING STILL

The modern man prides himself in believing that the world is progressing morally. It is his idea that science, education and democracy, in the course of their greater development, are lifting civilization to a higher and higher moral plane.

According to Reverend Reinhold Niebuhr of the Union Theological Seminary, New York, in an address at Symphony Hall last Sunday forenoon, this "idea of progress is not valid." He admits progress of man in small fields of activity only, and claims that moral progress, which is really the summation of all progress, is non-existent.

This idea of progress is relatively modern, sprouting up during the period immediately following the Middle Ages, when the new conceptions of democracy, freedom, science and education had their beginnings. The ancients had no such warped and dogmatic beliefs concerning their powers of human elevation. They believed that civilization is cyclic in character. The shifting scenes of history they attributed, not to moral progress or degradation, but the varying complexities of modes of life.

It is true that science, democracy and education have made some progress within their own boundaries alone but when the fundamental good and evil in each are balanced against each other, they are invariably found to cancel out and leave us the same morally as we have always been and always will be. For instance, we hail modern advancements in education as the greatest asset to our youth, because if people are educated they are better prepared to absorb the alleviating effects of literature, art and music. However, they are also prepared to absorb the baser elements of their environment. Again it is argued that the great headway that is being made in science is all for the better of civilization. It is true that discoveries and inventions in medicine, chemistry, physics and so on, are helping to make our existence more comfortable. But on the other hand this same science is every day inventing more efficient and more ghastly methods of human torture and extinction.

As for democracy and freedom, the present is showing one of the severest tests of them yet known to history. Our governments "of the people and for the people" which, such a few years ago, were thought of as the foundations of an eventual utopia, are every day crumbling before our very eyes.

As educated adults we are no better off morally than the infant. Even though the child has not had a chance to develop the good with which he is endowed at the same time he has not developed the evil to which he is no less susceptible. His memory does not serve him to recall the desirables of his past, yet neither does he remember to hold a grudge against his fellow being.—The Tech, M. I. of T.

CHOICE OF LITERATURE OFFERS
STANDARD FOR JUDGMENT

Literature plays a very important part in the civilization of men. It can mould the thoughts of nations, guide their actions and mark their lives with a powerful impress. Think of the effects of Voltaire's writings on the French, Dickens accomplished through literature what philanthropists failed to achieve in months of toil. Such results may pertain also to the individual. To many, books are inspiring friends and teachers. They are helping hands to the discouraged, bringing hope and comfort to the cast-downs. Books are a guide to youth and an inspiration for age."

In books we live in the greatest moments of history and realize the deepest experience of human lives. We sit down in our libraries and meet the greatest minds of the ages on equal terms and feel at ease with them. We need not feel ashamed of any personal weaknesses in their presence; we have a relationship of thought with them which is undisturbed by external conditions. We broaden ourselves by mental contacts with them. We forget all our own limitations and thrill to the challenge of their attainments.

"Literature is the soul of action." The heroes of antiquity are dead; their magnificent buildings are ruins; their armies have long since passed beyond existence; their cities and temples are dust; yet they live in their magic existence through books which make them as real to us as the leaders of today. Books are the teachers of men. They can well be classed as our companions, but good books seem to be as scarce as good companions so that we must exercise choice in our selection of them.

We should choose our books as we do our friends "for their sterling and intrinsic merit." Some we can keep with us as companions always; others should receive only a casual and occasional study. Some we should shun entirely; some we should master by thorough and concentrated effort; some are fit only for the fire. We are often told that a man can be judged by the friends he keeps. He can be judged more closely by the books he reads. His associates might be forced upon him; books are read as a result of his own choosing. They are an index to his character and an influence on his actions.—The Concordian.

One thing all of the "soft talkers" forgot in their "being thankful" blabberings about Thanksgiving Day was the stud's view of the great occasion. Thanksgiving came along on Thursday which made Wednesday seem like Friday; thus we subconsciously thought that we were embarking on another week-end. Then classes the day after Thanksgiving made Friday seem as if it were Monday—and to our delight what seemed to be the start of another week, in reality was the start of another week-end. Whee!

Have you ever heard the SAE boys say anything about Lulu, their cook. If you have, I know that it must have been good. Lulu has been cooking for the boys for sixteen years, and they say that she can go back that far and name everyone who has been connected with the Lodge in any way. If every fraternity had a Lulu, they could do away with their alumnae book. Congratulations to a cook who can keep a lob in a fraternal house for more than ten years. Lulu, you're on top.

Hazel Brown has a telephone conversation which lasts an hour, every night with Bo Gibson.... What did Cassie Werst have to do with Ernie Shores' new nickname, "Snug-e-Pup"?.... There were so many tickets taken up at the glorious game Thursday that it looks as if there will be a slim attendance at the basketball games.... Joe Fleck is Santa Claus at Wolfe Wile's downtown. You sweet little boy.... Sue Vance, the beautiful Smithfield product, looks just like Wende Barrie, of cinema fame....

Saturday afternoon the KA boys meet the Phidelt lads on the gridiron to determine who shall possess the beer keg which is the victor's spoils. I still know who is gonna win, and I still am not telling.... Thursday night four corpsman chans called for their dates with Martha Alexander, and was her face red.... Theme song last Friday morning: "I Feel a Yawn Coming On".... Mary Flowers sets one night a week aside for her studies. But she makes a three standing—oh yeah.

Maurice Saitalny will play dancable tunes, long evening gowns will be tripped over, and stiff shirts and cutting collars will be cussed Saturday night at the Interfraternity dance.... Wonder who the gal was who called Buddy Dallas "Baby-Face".... Deanie Hedrick still has Eli Boggs running around in circles.... Wonder if Danny Coid, my pal, has been doing a little work on Gay Webb and Gertrude Carigan. It kinda looks like love from here library open till ten o'clock. Most to your perfume.... or vice versa, people don't get started studying after eating a hearty dinner, till about eight or nine.

Anna Bain Hennemeyer, instead of taking notes on Dr. Funkhouser's lectures, prints the words. "I love you." Wonder who it is meant for. Ike VanMeter said to me, "You can't print anything about me. Every time I do it is too immoral to print." Some say that Carolyn Smith is wearing Dick Sproles' pin. Can't be sure, for I understand both these individuals are pretty tickle.... The Interfraternity Purchasing Agency can bungle more orders than would be humanly possible by the ordinary group of the ones.

Buddy Boling, UT's head cheerleader, was in a report at the game, his formerly from Lexington and wears a bit toward old KV.... Bill Heath visited Evolution class again last week.... In a discussion on agency in Business Law class, Ralph Huggett disclosed the fact that he would not want to be hooked by Pat O'Rear.... Prof Haun thinks that L. E. Fish hasn't all of his marbles.... Did you know that Ann Stevenson saves all of her holey, runny hose to wear at dances where the length of her dress covers her shapely legs?.... Sneaking of shapely legs. Kay Kennedy possesses a figure which meets every measurement of the perfect woman except that the proportion of her neck to her calves is off about a half inch.

Clara Bush was wearing Bob Sherman's pin last week. Wonder if it's the real thing, or if they were kidding for my benefit.... Joe Elen Hendren has more darn clothes for one gal.... what is this Bob White tells us about the Phidelt backs out on a bet on a ping pong match between Jimmy Moore and Bobby Coleman? The Siermans wanted to bet their chancery house that Jimmy could take Bobby in this "thrilling sport," and the Phidelt backs down.... These ten minute quizzes are a laugh. I haven't seen one ten minute quiz yet that didn't last at least a half an hour....

Frances "Satchel" Sleds just loves uniforms.... Frank McCool was in the clouds last week. His love, Janice Hull, was up from Nashville.... Wonder if it's a love affair between Clarke McCarron and Kellie Mahan.... They say that Dave Difford is the radical element of the Student Council, so he has acquired the name "Red".... It might interest Alice Guerant to know that one of my stooges was in a local flower shop when Butch Barr was ordering flowers for Robbie Baker.... Gail Hasker says that she "gets over" by asking understandmen if they are seniors.... Have you ever observed the editorials? Elizabeth Shocken and Zack Smith set in over at the Chio house?.... As soon as Joe Arden gets his check from home, he hands it over to Anna Ross Clark, who handles all of his financial affairs.... Bill Swetnam's dream came true, Kathleen Cole, his true love, visited him in Lexington last week.... Jim Chester and petite Betty Murphy seem to have culminated quite a romance. Bet she is out there yelling for Jim in the Intramural bouts, which started last night. What I mean, those are real scraps, and personal! I wouldn't miss one.... Charley "Spider" Zimmerman, a policeman of the first water, and Ann Stevenson have agreed that if they are not married when they reach thirty one years of age, that they will then enter into holy wedlock with each other.... A man has moved into the room next to mine in the rooming house next door to the Phidelt house, so now I have nothing to do these cold winter nights.... How many guys thought they were plastered Thursday night when they took a look at Marsha Crain and her twin sister. These girls are identical twins, and were dressed exactly alike.

"All the perfumes of Arabia can not sweeten this little hand"—that's what Lady Macbeth thought! But that was before the time of Lucien Lelong, Matchabell, Elizabeth Arden, Guerlain, Lavin, Hudnut, and Corday.

Now Harper's says, "Perk up your personality with perfume!" It's good advice, too.... suit your mood to your perfume.... or vice versa, if that works better. Lelong latest is "Indiscret," a sweet spicy odor, not too heavy. Elizabeth Arden's "Blue Grass" has created quite a sensation, too. Lanvin has initiated several new ones, among them "Rumeur"; "Scandal" and "My Sin" are still popular, rather heavy odors. Harper's likes "Rumeur," which is a sly, tangy kind. Guerlain's "Shalimar" is still a favorite—sweet and heavy with a fresh sort of smell. Then there is "Empress of India" by Matchabell—put up in their clever crown-shaped bottles. And speaking of bottles, try Mitchell, Baker, and Smith with your perfume spill—good for Yule in the purse. Headquarters:

I have been interested always in the reports of the University, have rather consistently kept up my membership, and followed the great advances which have been made—especially our football record.

Army service in our "Outpost of the Pacific" is most interesting.

Schofield Barracks is about twenty-five miles northwest of Honolulu—950 feet above sea level. Our climate is quite cooler than that in the city on the sea. In fact, our average summer weather is cooler than in Kentucky.

We have here about 10,000 soldiers at a distance from any town.

The interesting problem is to provide recreation for these men in their spare time. The post has a splendid library which is well patronized; each company has a fine "day-room" with papers, magazines, billiard tables, ping pong, and similar means to make a home. We have a very fine theater with two smaller branches with the latest pictures. Regular trips by motor convoy are made to the army beach about ten miles north—it is generally considered that this beach is better than the famous one at Waikiki. There is a splendidly organized athletic program. Ten regiments have regular contests in boxing, basketball, baseball, track and field, and football. The attendance, interest, and spirit of clean competition and regimental yell would do credit to college contests. At this time, we are engaged in divisional football contest; regimental inter-company leagues in basketball, softball, and boxing.

Dr. Smith is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Delta Kappa and editor of "Secondary Education" in Virginia.

Miss Fannie Herman, president of the local chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, will introduce Dr. M. E. Ligon, member of the University faculty, who will present Dr. Smith.

Guests of honor will be Pres. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey, Miss Ronaldine Spickard, in charge of arrangements for the dinner.

The officers of Kappa Delta Pi are Miss Herman, president; Miss Jane Lewis, vice-president; Miss Anna B. Peck, secretary; Dr. W. S. Taylor, treasurer, and Dr. L. M. Chamberlain, counselor.

Bitterman—Thurman

Mrs. Loretta Bitterman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bitterman, and Mr. Paul Wilson Thurman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Thurman, were married Thanksgiving Day at the home of the bride's parents on Melrose avenue.

The bride was graduated from the University in 1932, receiving a degree of B. S. in Music. She was a member of Phi Beta, national professional music and dramatic fraternity for women.

Mr. Thurman was graduated from the University in 1933 with a degree of mechanical and electrical engineering and a degree of civil engineering in 1934.

McVey Tea

Dr. and Mrs. Frank L. McVey will entertain tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock with their usual tea in honor of students and faculty.

Mrs. McVey will welcome the guests, and the house will be decorated with flowers and lighted tapers.

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By JOE QUINN
Kernel Sports Editor

They were ten long, lean years. So maybe you'll pardon us for going back a few days and recalling something of the football game that was played out here last Thursday. They were long years, but in the opinion of the majority of witnesses, the prize was worth the wait, when the Wildcats, after decades of famine, seemed to fall on the hapless Vols with a voracity unequalled at any time this season.

None of you need to be reminded that the score was 27-0. It might have gone up to 50, with just another break or two, but there should be no complaints about the final count, which is convincing enough as it stands. That four-touchdown margin amply repays Kentucky's supporters for the humiliation they have been enduring from Tennessee, particularly for the past three years.

Against Tennessee, the Wildcats displayed the finest performance they had given since the Ohio State game early in October. It took them a long time to come back to that peak, but it was a most opportune time to turn on that latent heat. In fact, they couldn't have picked a more opportune occasion. Upon the Tennessee game hinged the senior's record, with a victory giving them an edge over their losses by the narrow margin of that one game. Then too, the student body, the alumni and supporters generally had focused attention on that contest as a turning point in Kentucky's fortunes. The fact that they won and won by such a convincing margin, gives new hope to these admirers.

The Tennessee game, too, was more or less of a personal triumph for Bert Johnson, the Ashland Express, who celebrated his return to physical form with one of the best games he has ever turned in for the Wildcats. He personally escorted the ball across the goal line for two of Kentucky's markers and played an important part in the afternoon's manoeuvres, generally. It gave every one of Berts cheering section the greatest pleasure to see him lugging his leather with all his usual ferocity, especially through the Volunteer line which had succeeded in stopping him a year ago.

For those seniors who played their last game in Kentucky uniforms, it was also a great victory. They had finally succeeded where so many of their predecessors had failed. They had beaten a Tennessee team and will be remembered as those who had turned the trick.

Bob Davis, Kentucky's leading scorer for the season, also had a big day, even though he did not register his usual score. He was a constant threat to the harassed Volunteers and on several occasions seemed to be headed for a touchdown only to run into bad luck.

It's a hard task, handing out the bouquets to the Kentuckians as they all deserved them, as they all played great ball. Duke Ellington, Jimmy Long, Hammie, Head, McClurg, Wendell Skaggs, Gene Meyers, Joe Huddleston and Stan Nevers, in fact all along the forward line, the boys did yeoman service. Nevers played the last minutes of his day's worth with a broken bone in his foot. Ellington was right on the spot to take the pass which had been deflected by a Volunteer. Skaggs also intercepted a pass as did Gene Meyers, who took the ball and started a gallop to the goal line, looking like a halfback.

Stan Nevers, recently voted most valuable player on the Kentucky squad...has been confined to his room in Bradley Hall....with a broken bone in his foot....it is expected that this foot injury will keep Nevers from participation in ski-jumping meets....he's during the holidays in Connecticut....it will also give him a lot of trouble if he tries to play any hockey....his favorite winter sport....we hear the Dick Brooks Robinson has decided to spend the time he formerly gave to football practice....brushing up on his Shakespeare....Brooks' favorite volume is "The Merchant of Venice"...."Bunuel" Bob Davis has been the only Kentuckian to be rating much mention on the recent all-star teams....the Phi Taus overcame the Lambda Caps last Saturday....20-0....in their annual fraternity classic....we didn't see the game but heard that Frank Morris gave the initiation of Don Hudson sharing passes....but the fans didn't realize it....

Coach Adolph Rupp's latest varsity basketball edition will open its season on Friday night in Madison Gym against Georgetown College. As a preliminary, the brand-new Irish quartet will make its debut against the Georgetown Frosh.

The men reporting this week from the football ranks are Jim Goorth, Duke Ellington, Ted Hagan, Bob Davis, Red Craig, Dick Robinson and possibly Bert Johnson.

INTRAMURAL

With the completion of approximately thirty first-round wrestling matches the annual Intramural boxing and wrestling carnival got away to a flying start last night at the gym annex. Tonight's schedule will bring together intramural boxers in twenty three-round matches, the first starting at 7:15 p.m.

This annual tournament has always been the feature of the intramural sports program and increased interest has been manifested in it each succeeding year. Much of the success of the tournaments

AG CLUB WILL INITIATE

The Block and Bridle club will hold initiation services Monday evening, Dec. 2, in the Agricultural building for the following pledges: John Bell and James White, Pa. 18; Gaven McMurry, Buena Vista; Jack Harrison, Farmington; Wendell Binkley and Harold Binkley, Mayfield; Jeff Rankin, Stanford; Andy Hardesty, Owensboro; Charles Baird, Sacramento; Everett Stephenson, Calisile; Harlen Vea and Berry Davis, Lexington; Eric Dennis, Verailles; O. D. Hawkins, Owenton; Forrest Hogg and James Kibler, Harrodsburg.

16,000 See Cats Down Vols 27-0

(Continued from Page One) Tain Long fell on a Tennessee fumble on their 33 yard line. Two plays gained but one yard for Kentucky and Johnson dropped back and passed to Davis on the Tennessee 20. As Davis was tackled he lateraled to McMillan who scampered the remaining distance for the last Kentucky marker. Simpson failed on this try for the extra point after having scored the other points after the touchdowns.

Only one champion will defend his title in the wrestling division. Langan Hay, fullback on the varsity football team and an S. A. E. will defend his 165 pound crown. Runners-up in five other weight divisions will once again seek the honor they missed last year when Bill Chester, Sigma Chi, Due Kelly, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Bert Levy, Independent, Paul McComas, Alpha Gamma Rho, Gene Bryant and Elmore Simpson, both S. A. E.'s enter the competition.

DIGEST HONORS UK GRAD

Gene Bryant, S. A. E., Jimmy Westbrook, Phi Kappa Tau, and Bob Forsythe, Sigma Chi are the only defending champions entered in the boxing division. Westbrook is the 145-pound title-holder. Forsythe is champion of the 165-pound class, and Bryant is the light-heavy weight titlist.

M. G. Karsner, Lambda Chi, was runner-up last winter in the 115-pound division and Joe Boss, S. A. E., varsity tackle, was defeated in the finals of the heavyweight class. Both are entered in the boxing competition again this year, but will find plenty of competition in both classes.

Edna Smith, formerly of Lexington, and now a medical technologist with the National Institute of Health in Washington, D. C., was the subject of an article in the current issue of the Literary Digest in the feature "Interesting Careers for Women." In addition to the article, her picture appeared on the front cover of the magazine.

Miss Smith received her A. B. in journalism from the University of Kentucky in 1931 and later did graduate work in the University Department of Bacteriology. While enrolled in the University she was assistant editor of the Kentucky Kernel.

Art Exhibit To Have Etchings And Rare Prints

Five Works, Loaned by Central Kentuckians, Will Be Displayed

An exhibition of fine prints loaned by central Kentuckians and sponsored by the Lexington Junior League is scheduled to open next week at the University Art Center. Such works as Rembrandt's etching of "Jan Lutma" and a proof from Holland's "Antwerp Cathedral" are included in the exhibit.

Mrs. Doris W. Rannels, Montclair subdivision, is lending three prints of interest: an etching by Charles Woodbury, an aquatint by Goya and a Chinese wood block.

The opening date of the exhibit will probably be Sunday, December 8.
